

Hydrate Formula Determination

Recall:

A hydrate is a compound, typically a crystalline one, in which water molecules are chemically bound to another compound or an element

To determine how much water is present in a hydrate, we use the molar ratio of the anhydrous compound to water.

Ex) What is the formula for hydrated calcium chloride if 2.191 g of the hydrate is decomposed to 1.110 g of anhydrous calcium chloride?

p278 #52, 54, 56-60